

Two Column Layout Test

This is the first column. The text here should be read completely before moving to the second column if the reading order detection is working correctly.

More text in the first column to ensure it fills some space and tests the vertical flow.

This is the second column.

The extractor should detect that this is a separate column and not interleave the lines with the first column.

SOTA extraction requires understanding the spatial layout of the page.